Hi [redacted]

Thanks for you email of the 8th.

1. WCN- The publisher was the NWO Publications which went out of business. I was the editor and head of NWO. If it goes back to publication, it will do so under the World Government Institute of which I am the founder/director. Whether it will be an internet and/or a print publication depends mainly on its financial means.

2. The nation-state is a latter-day designation combining an ethnic people and a modern legal format. The history of China and Ethiopia is one of tribal dynasties contending for power over groups of people.

As for being "independent," invasions and civil wars were endemic to kingdoms, empires, and republics. The commonality between 18th century states and nation-states today is that both were exclusive and claimed sovereignty over the people. Today, however, the modern state in theory is based on the alleged sovereignty of the people as provided for in all national constitutions except the Saudi Arabian.

3. World Government based on democratic principles and fundamental human rights is not static nor mechanistic but organic and dynamic. It also contains the moral quality of justice. It serves humanity as well as the individual under the geodialectical principle of one for all and all for one, the basic social contract.

4. The "unification" of the UN is a chimera, that is, a fiction. The UN charter is a treaty arrangement between exclusive states. It excludes people. Humanity is already one; the world is already one. You yourself have exercised your inalienable right to choose your own political allegiance. In so doing, you have "made peace" with all your fellow humans who have also done so. The result is world peace. In other words, world government starts with individuals, not states. The most colossal myth of the 20th century is that belonging to a state means security. Isreal is a perfect example: more guns per capita than any other country. The only "homeland" today is the world itself.

5. Legally I am not in the United States. I have been declared in 6 court decisions including two of the Supreme Court, an "excludable alien." But as a stateless person, the US government can neither exclude me nor prevent me from entering once I leave. As to having a US passport now, in that for almost 50 years I traveled only with a WSA World Passport-and spent time in 34 prisons-my mission now is to teach world citizenship, world law and human rights. For that I must be free to travel. Hence I requested a US passport last year. The government issued it to me. It is still somewhat of a mystery.

6. I am sending you tomorrow "A World Citizen in the Holy Land."

7. "Dear World" will be available in several months. Have you read "My Country Is The World"?

8. I would like to visit Israel again. There is a tentative plan to visit Lebanon in the near future.

9. Re your registration number, beginning in 1949, the International Registry of World Citizens registered over 750,000 individuals. Then five years later, the WGWC began registering via the computer. Thus the humbers began anew. Also WSA has not entered the WCs from the Pacific Rim. The total is well over 1 m.

All the best. Happy New Year to you and yours.
